

Punch Line
By
Jake Bible

Jake sat there reading the drabble that was just posted.

It was okay.

Some violence, a little gore, kind of short on substance though. He liked the main character and the way the story unfolded. There was some good irony and the overall mechanics were adequate.

He continued to read, wondering when the one hundred words would be up; wondering when the 'punch line' would be revealed, since all drabbles have to have a punch line.

Jeez, this is taking forever, he thought. Get on with it.

Finally he read the last line and realized he was the punch line.